Purpose

This document is designed to assist Louisiana educators in understanding the LEAP social studies assessments for grades 5-8.

Introduction

All students in grades 5-8 will take the LEAP social studies assessments, which provide questions that have been reviewed by Louisiana educators to ensure their alignment to the K-12 Louisiana Student Standards for Social Studies (LS4) and appropriateness for all Louisiana students, measurement of the full range of student performance, and information for educators and parents about student readiness in social studies and whether students are “on track” for college and careers.

Vision for Social Studies Standards and Assessment

To be ready for success, students must build knowledge of the world; thoughtfully examine the information they read, hear, and observe; and develop and express their ideas through speaking and writing. Through regular analysis and evaluation of information from an array of high-quality primary and secondary sources and engaging learning experiences, students will develop the required knowledge, skills, and abilities to demonstrate understanding of important content and concepts. A leading goal in social studies is to prepare students for civic life by helping them to become knowledgeable about the world, reason through complex questions, and effectively express their ideas.

January 2025

Louisiana Department of Education

doe.louisiana.gov | P.O. Box 94064 • Baton Rouge, LA • 70804-9064

To accomplish this goal, students must consistently do the following in their social studies class:

- build content knowledge and skills through meaningful learning opportunities and the exploration of high-quality, complex sources;
- engage in the majority of the thinking, speaking, and writing; and
- practice using accurate and relevant information from their social studies knowledge and well-chosen evidence from sources to support claims about social studies concepts.

Simply stated, students must develop a broad and deep knowledge of the content so that they are able to express and support claims about social studies concepts.

Assessment Design

Supporting Social Studies Instruction

The LEAP Social Studies assessments will reflect the vision and instructional priorities for social studies by providing students with opportunities to answer questions that allow them to demonstrate knowledge of social studies content and concepts, apply social studies skills and practices, and express and develop claims supported by information and evidence with explanation and reasoning.

Set Based Design, Content Knowledge, and Sources

The LEAP Social Studies assessments include item sets, tasks, and standalone items, which are not part of a set. Sets are designed around one to five related sources and include three to six questions. First and foremost, all test items require students to demonstrate their understanding of social studies content knowledge. Some test items require students to, not only demonstrate their understanding of social studies content knowledge, but to also apply their social studies skills and practices. Test items will not direct students to “use your social studies content knowledge” because the expectation is for students to use their social studies content knowledge on every test item. The majority of questions within a set will include a purpose-setting statement directing students to “use” a given source or sources. Students are not expected to go to a source to find social studies content knowledge; rather, the sources are provided to support or add to their social studies content knowledge. In some cases, such as two-part dependent items or extended-response items, students are expected to deliberately and decisively use the sources to support or refute claims. Some item sets or tasks may contain one or two questions that do not have purpose-setting statements directing them to a source or sources. These are foundational items intended to provide a low-difficulty entry point for all students, but particularly for students with disabilities and English learners. Some standalone items will require students to use only their social studies knowledge and some may include a source that serves to stimulate thinking or to increase accessibility for students with disabilities and English Learners. The social studies assessment will include a variety of source types, such as adapted excerpts from texts, maps, charts, tables, graphs, diagrams, historical propaganda, and lists of events.

Students may engage with excerpts from course-relevant and grade-appropriate primary, secondary, and tertiary texts, which may be presented in original or adapted format, as appropriate. Excerpts in their original format may include footnotes to define unfamiliar words or phrases, may introduce clarifying text in brackets or parentheses, and may omit extraneous text as shown by ellipses. Adapted, a term which refers to a text or excerpt that is changed from its original format, promotes accessibility and comprehension. Excerpts that are in an adapted format may include features such as using familiar words or phrases directly in place of those that are unfamiliar, adjusting capitalization and punctuation, and/or separating especially long sentences into two or more shorter sentences.

Students will also engage with a wide range of visual sources, such as maps, graphs, bar graphs, double bar graphs, histograms, circle/pie graphs, linear and nonlinear line graphs, and simplified scatter plots. When creating graphics, the designers use color palettes that take colorblindness into account as well as apps and software to evaluate the accessibility of the graphics.

Educator review committees review all potential sources and graphics to determine whether the materials are appropriate for all Louisiana students, including English Learners and students with disabilities. Test content developers only use sources and graphics that have been approved for use by the source review committees.

Item Types

The social studies assessments in grades 5 through 8 include the following item types.

- Selected Response (SR): includes traditional multiple-choice (MC) questions with four answer options and only one correct answer, as well as multiple-select (MS) questions with five to seven answer options and more than one correct answer. For MS items, the question identifies the number of correct answers. All SR items are worth one point each.
- Technology Enhanced (TE): uses technology to capture student comprehension in authentic ways, previously difficult to score by machine for large-scale assessments. TE items are worth up to three points. A student may receive partial credit based on item-specific scoring rules. The Online Tools Training allows students to experience TE items and practice answering them to prepare for the computer-based test.
 - Drag and Drop: students select and move (drag) options and place (drop) them in answer areas.
 - Dropdown: students open a list (menu) of options and select a choice.
 - Hot Spot: students select spots within a graphic.
 - Match Interaction: students select areas or “buttons” within a chart/table.
 - Text Highlight: students choose from pre-identified portions of text within an excerpt to support an idea or show a concept.
- Two-part item: requires students to answer two related questions, worth two points. Two-part items may combine SR and TE item types.
 - Two-part Dependent (TPD): requires students to answer two related questions in which the answer to the second question is dependent on the answer to the first question. A student may receive partial credit by answering the first part correctly.

- Two-part Independent (TPI): requires students to answer two related questions in which the answer to the second question does not depend on the answer to the first question. A student may receive partial credit by answering either part correctly.
- Constructed Response: requires students to write a short response to a prompt in which they provide an answer that shows their social studies knowledge and will be scored using a 4-point rubric.
- Extended Response: requires students to write a response to a prompt in which they present their claim and include supporting information with evidence from their social studies knowledge and the sources with analysis and reasoning. Extended Response items will be scored using a 4-point rubric.

Check out the Using LEAP Social Studies Rubrics for more details about using LEAP Social Studies CR and ER rubrics.

Reporting Categories

All LEAP social studies tests for grades 3-8 and civics will be reported using two types of reporting categories.

- Content Reporting Categories - The Louisiana Student Standards for Social Studies (LS4) were written with the goal of producing individuals who have (1) a broad and deep knowledge of U.S. and world history, (2) a firm grasp and appreciation of the civic principles that underlie our system of government, (3) a solid understanding of fundamental economic principles and the ability to make wise financial decisions, and (4) a proficiency in both physical and human geography. All assessment items have a primary content reporting alignment.
- Skills and Practices Reporting Categories - To achieve the goals outlined in the LS4, students should build content knowledge through engagement with authentic primary and secondary sources and express arguments about social studies topics. The skills and practices for each grade and course are specified in the LS4. A subset of assessment items have a primary skills and practices reporting alignment.

Grade 5 Reporting Structures

Grade 5 builds on what students learned about ancient and classical civilizations in grade 4. In this course, students examine the European Medieval period and western African kingdoms, Aztec and Incan civilizations, the Renaissance and Reformation, the Age of Exploration, and the European conquest and colonization of the Americas and the Age of Contact. Students examine the growth in economic interactions among civilizations as well as the exchange of ideas, beliefs, technologies, and commodities. For reporting purposes, social studies content knowledge for the course is grouped mainly on chronological time periods, relative location, and/or relationships between civilizations.

The following table includes the description and LS4 alignment for each reporting category, as well as the approximate percentage of test points devoted to the content reporting categories. The approximate percentage of test points devoted to the skills and practices reporting categories is still being determined.

Reporting Category	Description	Content	Test
Content 1 - Medieval Europe and the West African Kingdoms	Content in this reporting category focuses on the society and culture of Western Europe throughout the early and middle Medieval Period and the West African Kingdoms of Ghana, Mali, and Songhai.	5.9 - 5.11	30-37%
Content 2 - Civilizations in the Americas	Content in this reporting category focuses on the society and culture of the pre-Columbian indigenous peoples of the Americas.	5.13	33-40%
Content 3 - Renaissance, Reformation, and Colonization	Content in this reporting category focuses on the Renaissance, the Reformation, and the First Global Age.	5.12, 5.14	26-33%

Reporting Category	Description	Content	Test
Skills and Practices A - Establishing Context	Skills and practices in this reporting category focus on applying chronological reasoning; examining continuity and change; making comparisons and connections; and applying spatial understanding.	5.1, 5.3, 5.4, 5.6 - 5.8	TBD
Skills and Practices B - Examining Sources and Claims	Skills and practices in this reporting category focus on examining and using primary, secondary, and tertiary sources; evaluating claims and counterclaims; using evidence to support claims; distinguishing between relevant and irrelevant information; and constructing and expressing claims.	5.2, 5.5	TBD

Grade 6 Reporting Structures

Beginning with the colonization of North America, this course offers a chronological study of major events, issues, movements, individuals, and groups of people in the United States from a national and a Louisiana perspective, 1580-1791. In this course, students examine British and French exploration and colonization, the development of the thirteen British colonies; French and Spanish Colonial Louisiana, the American Revolution, and the development and ratification of the U.S. Constitution. For reporting purposes, social studies content knowledge for the course is grouped primarily by chronological sequence.

The following table includes the description and LS4 alignment for each reporting category, as well as the approximate percentage of test points devoted to the content reporting categories. The approximate percentage of test points devoted to the skills and practices reporting categories is still being determined.

Reporting Category	Description	Content	Test
Content 1 - Colonial America and Louisiana	Content in this reporting category focuses on the history and regions of the colonies that became the United States of America; the relationship between the colonists and the Native American people; the origins and growth of slavery in North America; and the French and Spanish colonial rule in Louisiana.	6.8 - 6.10	37-44%
Content 2 - The American Revolution	Content in this reporting category focuses on the events leading to the American Revolution through the 1783 Treaty of Paris.	6.11	19-26%
Content 3 - Establishing the United States of America	Content in this reporting category focuses on the documents and debates that led to the foundation of the United States of America.	6.12	30-37%

Reporting Category	Description	Content	Test
Skills and Practices A - Establishing Context	Skills and practices in this reporting category focus on applying chronological reasoning; examining continuity and change; making comparisons and connections; and applying spatial understanding.	6.1 - 6.5	TBD
Skills and Practices B - Examining Sources and Claims	Skills and practices in this reporting category focus on examining and using primary, secondary, and tertiary sources; evaluating claims and counterclaims; using evidence to support claims; distinguishing between relevant and irrelevant information; and constructing and expressing claims.	6.6, 6.7	TBD

Beginning with the presidency of George Washington, this course offers a chronological study of major events, issues, movements, individuals, and groups of people in the United States from a national and a Louisiana perspective, 1791-1877. In this course, students examine the development of the early republic, the Louisiana Purchase, the War of 1812, westward expansion, social and political reform movements of the nineteenth century, the growth of nationalism and sectionalism, the Civil War, and the Reconstruction period. For reporting purposes, social studies content knowledge for the course is grouped primarily by chronological sequence.

The following table includes the description and LS4 alignment for each reporting category, as well as the approximate percentage of test points devoted to the content reporting categories. The approximate percentage of test points devoted to the skills and practices reporting categories is still being determined.

Reporting Category	Description	Content	Test
Content 1 - The First Presidents through the Era of Good Feelings	Content in this reporting category focuses on the major precedent-setting events of the presidencies of Washington, Adams, and Jefferson; the significance of the War of 1812; and the following period of growth and development from the early to mid-1800s.	7.8, 7.9, 7.10a-c	30-37%
Content 2 - Regional Changes, Reform Movements, and Sectionalism	Content in this reporting category focuses on regional changes brought through westward expansion and the forced relocation of Native Americans; movements to expand voting rights, to reform education and prisons systems, and to abolish slavery; and policies and decisions that led to increased sectionalism in the United States.	7.10d-m, 7.11, 7.12a-d	33-40%
Content 3 - The Civil War and Reconstruction	Content in this reporting category focuses on the Civil War and Reconstruction.	7.12e, 7.13, 7.14	26-34%

Achievement-Level Definitions

Achievement-Level definitions briefly describe the expectations for student performance at each of Louisiana’s five achievement levels:

- Advanced: Students performing at this level have exceeded college and career readiness expectations and are well prepared for the next level of study in this content area.
- Mastery: Students performing at this level have met college and career readiness expectations and are prepared for the next level of study in this content area.
- Basic: Students performing at this level have nearly met college and career readiness expectations and may need additional support to be fully prepared for the next level of study in this content area.
- Approaching Basic: Students performing at this level have partially met college and career readiness expectations and will need much support to be prepared for the next level of study in this content area.
- Unsatisfactory: Students performing at this level have not yet met the college and career readiness expectations and will need extensive support to be prepared for the next level of study in this content area.

Achievement Level Descriptors

Achievement-Level descriptors indicate what typical students should know and be able to do at each of Louisiana’s five achievement levels: Advanced, Mastery, Basic, Approaching Basic, and Unsatisfactory. Descriptors for each achievement-level will be available upon completion of standards-setting in summer 2025.

Test Administration

Administration Information

The testing window opens April 2, 2025, and runs through May 14, 2025 for all computer-based tests. The school or district test coordinator will communicate each school's testing schedule. For updates to the testing schedule, refer to the 2024-2025 Louisiana Assessment Calendar. All LEAP assessments are timed. No additional time is permitted except for students who have a documented extended time accommodation (e.g., an IEP).

Scheduling Requirements for Computer-Based Testing

Computer-based testing allows school systems some flexibility in scheduling. However, to reduce incidences of testing irregularities, school systems must adhere to the following scheduling and administration practices:

- Testing students in the same grade level across the school at or very close to the same time
- Completing makeup testing for students immediately upon their return
- Limiting student interaction during breaks between test sessions
- Isolating students who have not completed testing for the day (e.g., students with extended time accommodation)
- Preventing interaction between groups of students taking the same tests at different times within a testing day
- Requiring the completion of a session once it is opened (i.e., limiting the reopening of test sessions)
- Taking the sessions within a content area in the correct order (e.g., Math Session 1 taken before Math Session 2)

The following is also recommended:

- Limiting sessions to no more than three in one day for a student; and
- Administering no more than one session that includes an extended-response task or writing prompt (e.g., ELA Sessions 1 and 2, English I/II Sessions 1 and 2, and U.S. History Session 2) in a day to an individual student.

For more information about scheduling and administration policies, refer to the Online Assessment Scheduling Guidance, found in the LDOE Assessment library.

Testing Materials

For paper-based and computer-based testing, students must receive scratch paper and pencils from their test administrator for each test session. Provided scratch paper must not have any writing on it. Scratch paper must be collected at the end of each session and any scratch paper with writing must be returned to the school test coordinator.

Computer-Based Testing Platform

Students will enter their answers into the online testing system. When composing their written responses, students will type their responses into an answer box like the one shown. The toolbar at the top of the response box allows students to undo or redo an action; and add boldface, italics, or underlining to their response. There is a limit to the amount of characters that can be typed into the response box; however, it is set well beyond what a student might produce given the LEAP expectations for written responses and timing. The character count is not included on the response box so students focus on the quality of their responses rather than the amount of writing.

The computer-based tests include the following online tools, which allow a student to select answer choices, “mark” items, eliminate answer options, take notes, enlarge the item, and guide the reading of a text or an item line by line. A help tool is also featured to assist students as they use the online system.

- Pointer

- Cross-off

- Highlighter

- Sticky note

- Magnifier

- Line guide

- Masking

- Help

All students taking the computer-based test should work through the Online Tools Training, using the online tools so students are well prepared to navigate the online testing system.

Sample Test Items

This section includes sample test items. With each item and item set, is alignment information and the answer indicated by an asterisk, where possible. Rubrics for CRs and ERs are included with the items. All sample test items can be found in the Online Tools Training and the Classroom Assessment Items and Guidance.

King John

This drawing shows King John of England, who ruled from 1199 to 1216. It was made in the 1500s, as part of a book with biographies and pictures of key people in Europe. In this picture, King John is shown wearing a crown and armor. He is holding a sword in one hand. In his other hand is an object known as a globus cruciger (orb and cross). It was a common symbol of authority during his time. King John's coat of arms with three lions is shown in the upper left corner.

Adapted from the Magna Carta (1215)

This excerpt is from the Magna Carta, or Great Charter. It was an agreement between King John of England and the people of England. It had 63 points describing rights of the people and powers of the king.

To all free men of our kingdom: We grant forever all the liberties written here. . . .

9. Neither we nor our officials will seize any land or rent in payment of a debt, as long as the person is able to pay the debt. . . .

13. The city of London will enjoy all its longstanding liberties and trade without fees, both by land and by water. . . .

20. A free man will be fined according to his offense. He will be fined more for a serious offense. But that fine will not be high enough to take away all his money. . . .

39. No free man will be arrested, imprisoned, or denied his rights or belongings. He will not be exiled. He will not be denied his freedom. We will not use force against him. We will not do these things unless he is legally judged by his equals or by the law of the land. . . .

40. To no one will we deny or delay right or justice. . . .

45. We will only appoint judges, sheriffs, and other officials that know the law and are able to keep it. . . .

49. We will return all hostages immediately. . . .

52. We will return lands, liberties, and rights to any man who we have taken them from, without the legal judgment of his equals.

Adapted from the Proclamation of Neutrality (1793)

by George Washington

This excerpt is from a proclamation issued by President George Washington. It describes the policy of the United States in response to the war in Europe.

It appears that a state of war exists in Europe, Austria, Prussia, Sardinia, Great Britain, and the United Netherlands are on one side. France is on the other. The interest of the United States requires that we should be friendly and impartial toward the warring powers.

I have therefore thought fit to declare the position of the United States to observe the people's conduct toward those powers. I urge and warn the citizens of the United States carefully to avoid all acts that may violate our position.

I also make it known that citizens of the United States shall be subject to punishment or penalties under the law, by encouraging hostilities against any of the said powers. Citizens of the United States may also be punished for carrying any smuggled articles to the said powers.

Adapted from a Letter to Lafayette (1815)

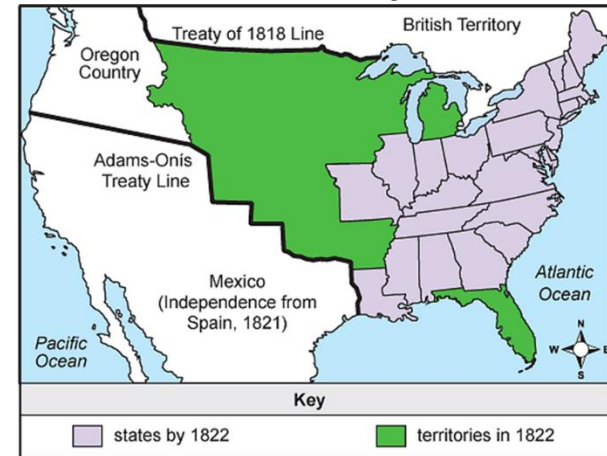

by Thomas Jefferson

In this excerpt from a letter written by Jefferson after he left government, he discusses the recent signing of the Treaty of Ghent, which ended the War of 1812.

Today I received news of our peace. I am glad of it. And especially glad that we ended the war with the action at New Orleans. But I consider the peace as a cease-fire only, because no security is provided against the impressment of our sailors. With this unsettled, we are in hostility of mind with England, although actual deeds of warfare may be suspended by a truce. The first act of impressment she commits on an American will be answered by retaliation, or by declaration of war here. The meantime must be a state of preparation for it. In this time, we have much to do in further strengthening our seaport towns, providing military supplies, preparing and training our militia, and arranging our financial system. And above all pushing our domestic manufactures, which have become so important that they never again can be shaken.

Adapted from the Monroe Doctrine (1823)

The American continents are not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European powers. We would consider any attempt by European powers to expand to any portion of the western hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety. We view any attempt by any European power to interfere with the purpose of controlling independent governments as unfriendly toward the United States.

Our policy in regard to Europe is not to interfere in the internal concerns of any of its powers. Our policy is to develop friendly relations with it and to preserve those relations.

It is still the true policy of the United States to leave other countries to themselves. We hope that other powers will follow the same policy.
