Panel Discussion Topics

- Teachers
- Students
- Communities
- Professional Development
- You

Teachers

- What programs do you have in place for new teacher support?
- How do you motivate teachers after the excitement of the first two weeks has settled?
- What advice do you have about initial classroom observations, especially unannounced ones?
- How do you approach specific high quality academic feedback for teachers at the beginning of the year?

Students

- What is your plan to make school memorable for kids?
- Describe an innovative practice for the start of school.
- How do you ensure that students are taking ownership of their work?
- Knowing that many students have experienced trauma and loss this year, how are you molding the adult team on your campus to support them and support one another?

Communities

- More and more, schools are becoming “community centers”. What are some great strategies principals can use to reach out to stakeholders, as well as to the families of students?
- What are some ideas beyond back to school nights?

Professional Development

- What is the best professional development you received as a principal? What training do you wish you had received early in your career?
- Do you have a professional development plan for yourself this year and what does it entail?
- What is on your professional reading list or what have you recently read that you think all principals should read?

You

- What learnings from last year are you bringing with you to the years ahead?
- What do you do for fun or how do you relax?
- Do you have any advice or anything additional you would like to share with our leaders?
