

A. Description of overall philosophy (200 word limit):
 Sophie B. Wright Charter School’s mission is to prepare all students to be productive citizens of society. Our commitment is to providing educational programs and services that will support meaningful educational progress for all students with disabilities. We recognize that parents play a major role in their child’s education. Therefore, we encourage, manage, and further develop positive working relationships with parents, organizations, and outside agencies. Working together as one, we will encourage all students to achieve academic skills needed, while facilitating their social and emotional development, with a goal of becoming lifelong learners.

Description of extended school year services:

Identification:

- Ages 3-21
- Classified with a disability according to Bulletin 1508
- Current Evaluation
- Current IEP
- Extended School Year Plan (ESYP) Determination Form/Documentation
- Letter of Eligibility or Ineligibility

Delivery:

The extended school year program is an extension of the regular school year program for students who have been determined to need this program to prevent them from losing significant skills that will impact their future life options. Therefore, the extended school year program is not an isolated summer program or a program designed to accelerate or remediate.

ESY services are to maintain learned skills, not developed new skills, to target goals and objectives derived from the current IEP, determined on an individualized, case by case basis, provided at no cost to families, and with no budgetary constraints as a factor, based on the needs of the individual child, and there is no specific amount of time required (not the same as what the child may receive during the school year), developed through creative use of educational and other personnel, provided in a variety of environments, including the home setting, available to any student who is eligible, evaluated annually and based on data collected during the current year to determine edibility, and discussed at the IEP meeting by the IEP team.

ESY services are not to develop new skills, a traditional summer school program, to meet newly developed goals and objectives, to make up for absences incurred during vacation or suspension, provided for the convenience of families, and to replace or duplicate alternative community resources.

The IEP team discusses ESY services at the initial IEP meeting and at every annual IEP meeting. The IEP team members may also discuss ESY services through an addendum to the IEP if necessary. Parents, staff members, and students may request an IEP meeting at any time to discuss ESY services. Any student receiving special education, regardless of the disabilities category, may be eligible to receive ESY services if the IEP team determines that they are necessary for the student to receive FAPE. The IEP team members should discuss the following factors when they are considering ESY services.

Any student receiving special education services, regardless of disability category, may be eligible to receive ESY services if the IEP team determines that they are necessary for the student to receive FAPE. The IEP team members should discuss the following factors when they are considering ESY services:

- Regression and Recoupment–The IEP team must determine whether, without these services, there is a likelihood of substantial regression of critical life skills caused by a school break and it is expected that the student will not recover those lost skills within a reasonable amount of time following the school break (e.g., six to eight weeks after summer break).
- Degree of Progress–The IEP team must review the student’s progress toward the IEP goals and objectives targeting critical life skills and determines whether, without these services, the student’s degree or rate of progress toward those goals or objectives significantly jeopardize the student’s receipt of educational benefit from his or her educational program during the regular school year.
- Emerging Skills and Breakthrough Opportunities–The IEP team reviews all IEP goals targeting critical life skills to determine whether any of these skills are at a breakthrough point. When critical life skills are at this point, the IEP team needs to determine whether the interruption in services and instruction on those goals or objectives during the school break is likely to significantly jeopardize the student’s receipt of educational benefit from his or her educational program during the regular school year.
- Interfering Behaviors–The IEP team determines whether the student demonstrates any interfering behavior(s) such as stereotypic, ritualistic, aggressive, or self-injurious behavior(s) targeted by the IEP goals which substantially jeopardize the student’s receipt of educational benefit from his or her educational program during the regular school year. The team also determines whether the interruption of programming for these interfering behaviors is likely to significantly jeopardize the student’s receipt of benefit from his or her educational programming during the next school year.
- Nature and/or Severity of the Disability–The IEP team determines whether, without ESY services, the nature and/or severity of the student’s disability is likely to significantly jeopardize the student’s receipt of benefit from his or her educational program during the regular school year.
- Special Circumstances or Other Factors–The IEP team determines whether, without ESY services, there are any special circumstances that
